

People

weekly

KIM DELANEY'S
Drunk-Driving Arrest

Letterman's Show
Turns 20

Style Watch

by Samantha McIntyre

Frill Seekers

It looks as if fashion has returned to the age of innocence as chic celebs like Penelope Cruz and Sheryl Crow abandon daring décolletage in favor of the feminine flair of the Victorian lace blouse. "I love the Victorian era; it really suits my style," says actress Julie Delpy, who designed the high-collared top she chose for a recent premiere. Perhaps it's because the look of the frilly frock reflects "a quieter femininity," notes Mashama... say Moore... it's... at the same... Pairing the top with trendy togs like low-rise jeans or a sleek suit "shows you can be modern in a romantic way," says stylist Danna Weiss. Plus, she says, "it's a great way to show your figure. It gives you a nice shoulder line and bust." and fun, advises Stetson. "If it's not done right, it can look prissy," she warns. "You don't want to look like a funky widow." with Tina L. Redwood in New York City

Pairing the top with trendy togs like low-rise jeans or a sleek suit "shows you can be modern in a romantic way," says stylist Danna Weiss. Plus, she says, "it's a great way to show your figure. It gives you a nice shoulder line and bust."

High-collar femininity:
1. actress Kate Hudson
2. Wanda Syta's Penelope Cruz
3. actress Julie Delpy
4. Scary Movie 2's Tori Spelling
5. singer Sheryl Crow